Mob Law at Emporia, Va.

Walter Cotton, a negro, and Brandt O'Grady, white, were lynched at Em poria, Greenesville county, Va., at 12:45 o'clock Saturday afternoon, 1 hour and 20 minutes after the with drawal of State soldiers. The with drawal was a virtual surrender of the prisoners to a mob on the part of the County Judge and Sheriff. The action of the county authorities was vigorously protested against by Gov

The trouble began Wednesday. when the house of John R. Grizzard at Emporia was robbed. Two tramps, death, were suspected and Magistrate John W. Saunders and Constable J. N. Welton went in pursuit. They were killed by the tramps, who es caped. Friday the negro was cap tured at Jarratts, a station on the At lantic Coast Line, a few miles north of Emporia. He was taken to Em poria and placed in jail. A large crowd of citizens, armed with various weapons, began to assemble, but were O'Grady was arrested and lodged in jail at Emporia. The man was found in the house where the murder of the officers was committed, but denies having had any part in the shooting.

A company of the Richmond Blues was ordered to Emporia Friday by representations of the county judge. During the night it was reported that the soldiers would be attacked by a mob. Another company was sent from Richmond, 60 miles north, and notice given by Major Sol. Cutchins that if attacked his men would shoot to kill. The mob then quieted down.

Saturday morning a meeting of citizens was held in Judge Goodwyn's to lynch the prisoners. The order was signed by the Sheriff and Judge

The two companies left Emporia for Richmond at 11:25 o'clock. A A. R. De Fluent, Editor of the mob was organized, and at 12:45 Cotton was swung up to a tree in the courthouse yard and his body riddled use the Cough Remedy, and as a re-

The Kissaphone.

The reason why a kiss Contains so much felicity s just because each pair of lips Is full of electricity.

It flashes in the eye, Or in a smile so tender, And then the lips together pressed Produce the kiss in splendor.

Now, this device is known By the name of kissaphone, And of all the 'phones invented it by far the best. No other electricity lives half as much felicity. For Love turns on the current, and the kiss does the rest.

To work the kissaphone You do not need a battery, Nor any dynamo machine With magnets and such matter-v:

ou do not ring a bell, Nor Central call, Hello !-ingt only wants a wish, a sigh, To set the thing a-going.

The kissaphone was not Invented by an Edison; t never has been patented, Like corsets or a medicine

t don't get out of gear If anything is missing; There is no yearly bill to pay, No charge for extra kissing.

The kissaphone's in use Throughout the whole community: ou need not be a millionaire To have the opportunity.

There's no more cost to pay For one kiss or for twenty-
